A CONFLICT OF OUTLAWS

In Which Two Alleged Highwaymen are Shot Down.

An Organized Band of Robbers Depredating in Tennessee—A Black brute kills his wife and child with a hatchet.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 30.—A special from Berlin, Sumner County, says: The authorities of Sumner County are looking for a big, strapping negro named Jim Smith, who shot down and killed two men in cold blood. Smith is from Kentucky, and came to this part of the country last winter. He started a saloon to draw the custom of the laborers on the North Pennsylvania Railroad, and he got so much of it that he is reputed to be worth several thousand dollars.

The railroad, a few miles from this place, will pass through a long tunnel, now being constructed, and known as the Allegheny Mountain tunnel. Several hundred men, white and black, are employed in its construction, and when pay-day comes it is always a great day in camp.

For a few days a gang of negroes from Virginia, fifteen in number and known as the "Mulligan Niggers," had been hanging around the works, waiting for the men to be paid off. It is said by the railroad men that they never do any work and are regularly organized for robbery, being constantly armed. When the men were paid off they began their depredations. As the workmen went up the mountain to Smith's place they would be confronted by these highwaymen, who would demand money for the payment of their revolvers. Several of the white laborers were robbed in this way.

Between Jim Smith, the Kentucky negro, and his followers and these Virginia blacks there has been no love lost. It was whispered that the Mulligans intended to attack Smith and rob him.

On Saturday his place was the scene of high carnage. Colored men and whites drank and fought and Smith became alarmed at the stories brought to him that the Virginia negroes intended to attack him. His family took refuge in a neighboring cabin and he swore that he would kill at least eight of the Virginia highwaymen that crossed his path.

The opportunity came a Sunday morning, when he opened fire on two of them in front of his saloon and killed them both. At one he fired twice and missed both times. "Don't shoot me," cried his victim, throwing up both his hands, but Smith would not listen to any supplications for mercy, and while the laborers in the neighborhood poked their heads through windows and craned their necks around doors in a frightened manner, Smith fired a third time, his victim falling, pierced through the heart.

No one dared stop Smith, and as soon as he realized what he had done he disappeared through the trees and escaped. No one knows where he has gone.

A Band of Robbers.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 30.—The authorities of Clay, Putnam, Jackson and Smith counties are in search of a band of robbers who have been operating in the Upper Cumberland section for some time. These men have secret hiding places in the mountains, and send stolen property to Kentucky to be disposed of. The last reported is that of Fowler, Fumelle & Co., of Butler Landing, Clay County, $10,000 being taken. A large portion of the money belonged to farmers, who placed it on deposit for safe keeping. A hot battle is expected to be fought in the pursuit of this band.

A Black Brute.
BURLINGTON, Ia., Sept. 30.—George Williams, a negro, yesterday attacked his wife with a hatchet, inflicting five or six severe wounds on her hand and face. The woman escaped down stairs covered with blood. Williams then struck his little daughter, six years of age, and she fell senseless to the floor. Thinking he had killed both woman and child, he walked out on the street and was arrested. The woman's injuries may prove fatal. Jealousy was the motive for the deed.

SOMEWHAT MIXED.
A White Woman's Troubles—A Murder and a Lying.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 30.—Yesterday morning at Kingston Station, Sheriff Moore of this county, and a policeman overtook Sam Lee, who murdered Wm. Warford on Friday at Clinton place, near this city. Lee and his mulatto stevedore were sitting near the depot eating breakfast and waiting for a train to go to Illinois. The Sheriff got the drop on them. Lee threw up his hands and said, "I am Sam Lee. I shot Bill Warford because he was too intimate with my wife." The Lee woman raised and sold garden truck, and has a large business. Warford is the second man killed on her account. In 1914 she had Pat Kelly, a negro, arrested on a charge of assaulting her. Kelly was tried and hanged. Since then Mrs. Lee has had two mulatto children. During the time between Pat Kelly's hanging and the time she married, she had to sleep every night on a flat-bed anchored in the middle of the Cumberland River for fear the negroes would lynch her.

Iowa Coal Miners' Strike Ended.
DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 30.—The Iowa coal miners' strike struck about a month ago for four cents, and have held out pluckily. The local demand went up the price of coal, and after the operators vainly offered four cents, conditioned on the leaders of the strike being discharged, they yielded this point, and no further friction is expected this winter. Operators claim that the month's idleness has prevented them from taking Minnesota and Dakota orders, and they predict a smaller output than last year.

State Smutney Still Feasting.
FORT PLAIN, N. Y., Sept. 30.—There is no doubt that Kate Smutney is nearing her end. Everything appears dark before her eyes, and her voice is becoming much weaker and indistinct. This is the 29th day of her alleged fast.

Following Victoria's Example.
NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Miss House Siskie, the daughter of George G. Siskie, who served a week ago from New Rochelle with her William Mead, and was married in Brooklyn, was remarried yesterday by the Rev. Father Longhin, in New Rochelle.

Blown Up.
WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 30.—A rolling mill in the Dupont powder yards blew up at 5:30 Tuesday afternoon with a terrific report. Telephone messages were sent to the city, and it was learned that the mill was torn to fragments.
